Guest Speaker, ShelterBox Canada

Dani Bristow is the Volunteer Program Coordinator at ShelterBox Canada. She manages over 140 volunteers across the country who support ShelterBox in their own communities to raise funds and awareness to ensure no family is without shelter after disaster. She attended Western University where she studied Health Promotion and developed an interest in the social determinants of health and international health systems. Dani pursued a career at ShelterBox Canada as she believes that shelter is incredibly important for well-being and is a basic human right.
